4,000 Lose Jobs

State W. P. A. Offices to Drop 4,000 on All Types of Work

Nationwide reduction in W.P.A. forces will reduce the number of men employed in Kingston and Ulster county approximately by 40 to 50, it was stated today at the office of the W.P.A. in the Cortis Building on the Strand, at Hasbrouck avenue.

The close of June saw 299 men employed on W.P.A. projects in Kingston, and 244 on county projects. With the reduction that goes into effect there will be approximately 500 employed.

Last year on June 30, there were 540 on the county and city W.P.A. rolls.

County Manager Arthur F. Hallinan, in charge of the W.P.A. program in the city and county, said today that the reduction would not halt the W.P.A. projects now underway in Kingston and the county.

The big projects under way in Kingston are the construction of the Fourth ward sewer system, the new storm water system in the Roosevelt Park section, the removal of the old trolley tracks and work on the sewage disposal plant and the siphon line connecting the city sewers with the disposal plant on East Strand.

4,000 Affected in State

In the state more than 4,000 names, representing workers on "all types of projects," are being taken off W.P.A. payrolls, the Associated Press reports.

The "arbitrary" layoff, ordered by Washington for war economy reasons, will reduce the number of state workers to 11,200. Clarence W. Post, deputy state administrator, announced. The total on May 31 was 15,233.

If congress passes legislation now being considered, Post said, further cuts will be necessary in New York.

In addition to the enforced layoffs, many W.P.A. workers have been leaving voluntarily during the past year to take jobs in war industries. The bulk of those leaving for all reasons have been construction workers.

Meanwhile, termination of the Civilian Conservation Corps program closed four New York camps employing approximately 600 enrollees and 40 civilian supervisors.

The camps, all under jurisdiction of the conservation department, are at Plattsburgh, Paul Smith's, Norwich and James Baird Park, near Poughkeepsie. They were the only survivors of a program which had 97 camps in 1936-37.

Case to Go to Jury

Riverhead, N. Y., July 1 (AP)—The "mercy murder" case of Mrs. Edith Reichert, 29, charged with the slaying of her brother, George Horne, in a mental institution, is expected to go to the jury today. Both sides rested yesterday after testimony of two doctors, who said Mrs. Reichert was sane at the time of the shooting in Kings Park State Hospital December 23. Defense psychiatrists testified previously they believed her insane. Mrs. Reichert, who is charged with killing her brother with a sawed off rifle to "put him out of his misery" for first degree murder, is now in court for fire degree murder.

Mitchell Ends in Hospital

Troy, N. Y., July 1 (AP)—John Mitchell, 28, released from Rensselaer county jail last night after serving a sentence for non-support, headed straight for the house where his wife, mother-in-law and father-in-law live. Then, police said, all this happened: Mitchell smashed three windows trying to force entry into the house and wound up in Leonard Hospital, unconscious, bleeding from cuts.

Dr. H. S. Ingraham Gets Commission

Dr. Hollis Ingraham, district health officer, in charge of the Kingston office of the state health department, has received his commission as lieutenant, senior grade, in the U. S. Navy Reserves, and will leave Saturday for Maryland. Dr. Ingraham's photo will be found on page 14.

Dr. Ingraham, who resides in Ulster Park, has been in charge of the Kingston office, now located at 61 Albany avenue, since 1938.

During the years that Dr. Ingraham has been in charge of the local office of the state health department, he has been very active in health work, and has spoken at many public meetings relative to public health.

Dr. Ingraham will be succeeded here as district health officer by Dr. Cleland Sargent, who is now in the Amsterdam office of the state health department.

Murray Assails O.P.A.'s Policies as Against Workers

Opens U.S.W. Plea Before War Labor Board for
$1 Increase in Daily
Wage Scale

Washington, July 1 (AP)—Philip Murray, opening the United Steel Workers' plea for a $1 a day wage increase and union security in "Little Steel," told the War Labor Board today the union's case "is one of correcting a past abuse" and inequalities must be wiped out before stabilization can be achieved.

Murray assailed the wage, rationing and price control policies of the Office of Price Administration.

"If the disparity and inequality which now prevails for steel workers is eliminated, wages can thereafter be stabilized for the steel industry," said Mr. Murray, president of the U.S.W. and C.I.O. About 157,000 employees of Bethlehem, Republic and Inland Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube Companies are affected.

Pointing out that it has been nine months since collective bargaining began in these cases, Murray said, "this proceeding presents one of the best classic examples of 'cooling off' in operation."

Murray, criticizing the O.P.A., said that agency "initiated a campaign to combat any wage increases for the workers of the nation, regardless of how justified they may be. This program began about the time the union's case came before the panel. Never were we afforded an opportunity before any public body to meet the all-wise economists of that administration. The crazy-quit economic theory of the Office of Price Administration gave comfort to all enemies of labor."

Murray said "it also might not be amiss to ask the representatives of the four steel corporations how they justify, under their recommended wage freezing program, the increase in salaries to the executive officers of their corporations during 1941 as against 1940."

Citing reports of the securities commission, Murray said the salary of Tom Girdler, chairman of Republic Steel, rose from $176,000 in 1940 to $275,000 in 1941, or 56.3 per cent. Other salaries he cited showed increases of 10 to 46 per cent among officials of Bethlehem and Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

The board allotted the United Steel Workers four hours to summarize its demand for $1 a day wage increase, union security and the company checkoff of union dues and gave each of the four companies one hour.

Ulster County Workers for U. S. O. Are Urged to Extend Their Efforts

Workers throughout the county are urged to make every effort this week to visit people in the current U. S. O. War Fund Campaign in order that a substantial increase in pledges may be reported Friday when the weekly report is made to County Chairman Judge J. Edward Conway.

In the city of Kingston where a goal of $12,000 has been set the house-to-house canvass is now progressing rapidly and it is hoped that the canvass may be completed by July 6, the date set for a final report in the $28,500 county drive.

Contributions sent direct to County Treasurer Chester A. Lyons will be credited to the particular town or ward from which they originate if the sender's name and address accompanies the money. Thus all contributions are credited directly to the ward or town quota.

Tokyo Puts Troops on Red Border

Soldiers and Planes Are Massed Along Manchukuan Frontier for Attack

May Delay Attack

Neutrals Say Japanese
May Wait for Decisive
Nazi Victory

(By The Associated Press)

Japan was reported massing troops and planes on the Manchukuo border opposite Russian Siberia today and London military quarters declared there was "very little doubt" that the Japanese were making preparations for an eventual attack on Russia.

Tying in with this report, the Domei (Japanese) News agency announced that Japanese troops had launched a general offensive on the far northwest China front in Suiyuan Province—presumably aimed at the destruction of Chinese armies which might embarrass a Japanese thrust into Outer Mongolia.

Outer Mongolia, adjoining both Siberia and the Japanese "puppet state" of Manchukuo, is under Russia's protection.

A London spokesman said there had been a general movement of Japanese forces northward and that the Japanese were evidently preparing to attack Russia "at the chosen moment."

"I don't wish to imply that their preparations are complete or that their attack is imminent," the spokesman added.

Chinese reports had repeatedly asserted that Japan was concentrating upward of 500,000 troops in Manchukuo for a thrust into Siberia.

Neutral observers, however, believed Japan would delay attacking Russia until Adolf Hitler's summer offensive had gained a decisive victory over the Red Armies. There were indications that this offensive now was fast developing.

Other Far Pacific developments: China war front — A Tokyo broadcast asserted that Japanese troops had completed occupation of other Japanese 450-mile Chekiang-Kiangsi railway which leads into the heart of China.

Domei dispatches said Japanese columns driving toward each other along the railway from the east and west had met at Hengfeng after smashing Chinese forces entrenched on a height west of the town.

Previously, Chinese dispatches asserted the two columns were still 50 miles apart.

Chinese military quarters said the invaders might be expected to turn next to the coastal province of Fukien. Fifty thousand Japanese veterans of the Philippines campaign were reported concentrated on Formosa, across Formosa Strait from Fukien, while other Japanese forces were reported driving down Kiangsi Province toward Fukien.

United Nations headquarters also announced that Allied planes again raided the Japanese bases at Lae, just north of Salamaua, and at Rabaul, New Britain.

Madagascar—Advices reaching Vichy said British patrols and French advance posts were fighting a series of engagements along the west coast of Madagascar, with clashes developing between Makunga and Ambilobe, 70 miles southwest of Diego Suarez.

The British captured the big Diego Suarez naval base on the northern tip of the island early in May.

Isles Are Occupied

Tokyo (from Japanese broadcasts), July 1 (AP)—Japanese forces occupied the Nicobar Islands, in the Indian Ocean between the Andamans and the northern tip of Sumatra, on June 13 and 14, a Domei war correspondent reported today. The seizure was accomplished without bloodshed, he said.

All the bodies recovered were burned beyond recognition, the troopers said.

The scene of the catastrophe is in the southern part of West Virginia a few miles from the Virginia line. The entire section, one of the nation's leading coal producing areas, is mountainous.

Mrs. Lawrence Runyon, wife of the mine superintendent at Premier, said she saw a large plane in trouble shortly after noon. The big ship's wing dropped off, she said, and the plane dived straight for a hilltop. It came to rest in a valley on the other side of the hill.

Other witnesses told troopers that they heard a roaring noise as the plane nosed near the hilltops. It appeared, they said, as if the pilot were trying to straighten out the plane.

He apparently succeeded but at that moment the wing fell and the crashed followed.

Allied Headquarters, Australia,

July 1 (AP)—Commando-type troops of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces knifed through the swampy jungles of New Guinea Sunday night in a swift, hit-and-run attack on the Japanese garrison at Salamaua in which the enemy suffered loss of 60 men, allied headquarters announced today.

The daring force—the communiqué didn't say of whom it was composed—withdrew from the engagement with a quantity of captured booty. Only two of the attacking soldiers were wounded.

Salamaua was captured by the Japanese early in March and they have been attempting ineffectually ever since to use it as a base for widening their occupation of New Guinea. On two occasions they attempted to advance toward the allied base at Port Moresby, about 150 miles to the south, but each time turned back. A forbidding chain of mountains lies between Salamaua and Port Moresby.

Allied bombers have attacked Salamaua almost constantly in recent weeks, but Sunday night's raid was the first assault against the base by land. Presumably one of its main tasks was to test the strength of the enemy foothold.

The troops apparently approached the stronghold by water, although the communiqué did not say. That the raid was a complete surprise and caused considerable confusion was indicated by the Japanese counter measures. The communiqué said the Japanese retaliated by bombing the two native villages of Mubo and Komeatun "without damage."

At Least 10 Die In Plane Wreck

Converted Airliner Dives
Into West Virginia
Garden at Premier

Welch, W. Va., July 1 (AP)—A big airplane, apparently a converted airliner, crashed and burned in the West Virginia mountains near here today was a loss of at least 10 lives.

State Troopers Earl Yeager and Tom Harrison said that ten bodies had been removed from the charred hull and that most of the victims were believed to be army men.

They said the plane had borne insignia of American airlines. The plane crashed in a garden at about a half mile from the mining village of Premier, three miles from Welch.

Eight bodies were first removed and then two more. Troopers said the search was continuing for others.

All the bodies recovered were burned beyond recognition, the troopers said.

1,551 Youths Sign In City and County For Draft Service

Registrations Below What Boards Expect; Many Enlistments Given
as Reason

Ulster county and the city of Kingston enrolled a total of 1,551 youths between the ages of 18 and 20 yesterday when the Selective Service machinery once again went into motion to enroll the men in the lowest bracket. This figure will be slightly increased when the registration cards of residents of the city and county who registered at distant draft boards are returned to their local board, it was stated at the local board here today.

However, the number registered was considerably under that which had been expected. Based on census figures estimates had been made in most districts as to the total registration expected but many boards had underestimated apparently the number of youths between 18 and 20 who have already enlisted in the armed services.

In Kingston it had been estimated that about 800 youths between 18 and 20 would be enrolled. The number who enrolled was 469 but it was stated this figure probably would be increased somewhat when city lads who registered outside the city had their cards returned to the local board.

Local Board No. 316 at New Paltz came close to the city totals with a total of 417 registered from that district. There were 12 registered at Pine Bush, 37 at Wallkill, 67 at Port Jervis, 77 at Highland, 81 at Marlborough and 143 in New Paltz for a total in that district of 417.

Local Board 315 of Kerhonkson reported a total of 362 registered. Local Board No. 314 at Saugerties reported a total of 303. In Saugerties it was said the registration was considerably below that which had been anticipated.

Generally the registrations apparently were below the expected figures. The total for the state was announced as approximately 250,000. The selective service machinery now has a complete registration of the man power of the nation from 18 to 65. Under present plans the 18-20 group will not be called for active service.

Atwill Is Given His Release on $1,000 Bond

Los Angeles, July 1 (AP)—Lionel Atwill, veteran screen actor, was at liberty on $1,000 bond today, pending his plea tomorrow to a charge of perjury returned in a county grand jury indictment.

The indictment accuses Atwill of testifying falsely last year when he denied that improper parties were held in his home in 1940.

The 1941 grand jury investigated accusations that a 16-year-old girl was mistreated in Atwill's home, that men and women guests were shown lewd motion pictures and that certain women guests disrobed in the bathroom. The jury reported there was insufficient evidence to warrant prosecution.

Atwill appeared before the grand jury yesterday at his own request. His attorney, Isaac Pach, issued a statement that said in part: "The charge against Mr. Atwill was thoroughly investigated by a previous grand jury and found to be baseless. He will press for the earliest trial possible when his innocence will, I am sure, be completely established."

U. S. Navy Communique Declares Expertly Timed Arrival Is Most Fortunate for Isle's Defenders

Washington, July 1 (AP)—The Navy announced today that aerial reinforcements had been delivered to the British Island of Malta in the Mediterranean and had already caused the enemy to suffer "considerable losses."

The planes were carried to Malta by the United States aircraft carrier Wasp, which made the deliveries without damage.

A Navy communique based on reports received up to 8.30 a. m. (E. W. T.) said:

"European area:

Reinforcements in the form of airplanes were recently carried through the Mediterranean to Malta to aid the British in their defense of the embattled island.

These trips were accomplished by the U. S. aircraft carrier Wasp and were completed without damage either to the escort or the Wasp.

"During one of these ferry trips after British aircraft, manned by R.A.F. pilots, had been launched from the Wasp and were in flight over the island of Malta the enemy attacked the island. Completely surprised by the increased number of defending fighters the enemy suffered considerable losses.

"The planes which took off from the Wasp engaged the enemy over Malta before landing on the island. After landing and hasty refueling at the airfield they were again in the air continuing to repel the enemy attack within 30 minutes after arrival.

"The expertly timed arrival of reinforcement planes on the Wasp was most fortunate for the heroic defenders of the British stronghold and the cause of the United Nations."

Malta, the most-bombed spot in the world, is a vital British stronghold lying athwart Axis supply lines through the Mediterranean from Italy to Libya.

Only yesterday Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, former British chief in the Mediterranean and now a member of the allied high command here, said that torpedo planes and other attack craft operating from Malta last fall had been instrumental in cooperation with surface ships and submarines in sinking up to 50 per cent of all supply ships which the Axis then (Continued on Page Six)

Uptown Stores Push Sales of War Stamps

A visit to a number of stores in the uptown district this noon disclosed that practically all were taking an active interest in the sale of war savings stamps and that many of them were suspending other business from 12 to 12:15 and devoting all their energies to the sale of stamps.

In most cases stamp sales had not been totaled, but estimates ran from $8 or $10 up to $25 for the period.

In several cases it was stated that the stores were pushing the sale of stamps regularly, with sales running as high as $200 a week.

One Wall street store manager said that he had to turn down an order for 200 stamps, since he did not have that many available at the time.

Farley Eliminates Himself From Gubernatorial Race; Willkie Speaks

New York, July 1 (AP)—The self-elimination of James A. Farley from consideration as a Democratic candidate for governor and formation of a state-wide committee to "draft" Wendell L. Willkie for the Republican candidacy are the latest political developments.

Both nationally-known figures, mentioned recently as possible dark horses in the nomination races, broke silence yesterday regarding the gubernatorial campaign. While the former postmaster general unequivocally refused to run, Willkie left his intentions open to speculation.

"I will make a statement of my views about the New York gubernatorial situation in a very few days," the 1940 Republican presidential candidate declared.

Book Publisher Stanley M. Rinehart heads the state-wide group that has announced its twofold purpose of getting Willkie to enter the Republican primary and then persuading the Republican state leadership to make him its candidate instead of former Dis-

Several Defense Lines Remain Before Naval Base of Alexandria, Dispatch Says

Promises Victory

General Auchinleck Says
Forces Will Beat Axis
Invaders

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

Dispatches from Cairo late today acknowledged that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Axis invasion armies had advanced within 70 miles of the Nile delta, and official London quarters hinted that the Suez Canal might be rendered unusable if the British were forced to yield it to the enemy.

As the eight-day-old battle of Egypt surged to a climax, the British reported that thousands of soldiers and hundreds of cannon were ready to meet the main onslaught of Rommel's armies.

Several lines of defense still remained before Alexandria, the British said.

German field headquarters asserted that Axis troops were now attacking "the last British fortifications" at El Alamein, only 65 miles west of Alexandria naval base.

The British acknowledged that Axis spearheads had raced beyond El Daba, 35 miles west of El Alamein, and indicated that the hour of a decisive battle was approaching.

In an order of the day, Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, the British commander in chief in the Middle East, declared:

"The battle is not over yet and will not be over until we have defeated the enemy, and defeat him we will."

London quarters intimated that the Suez Canal would be rendered useless if the Axis threat became acute.

Simultaneously, the whole Soviet front was reported aflame with gigantic battles. Adolf Hitler's field headquarters reported fresh gains in the bloody siege of Sevastopol, in the Crimea, and indicated that the German army had launched a new offensive at various points on the central (Moscow) front.

Other Nazi attacks were developing around Kharkov, Kursk and Kolkhov.

In the Crimea, German military dispatches said Axis troops had occupied Balaklava, eight miles below Sevastopol, and seized Fort Malakov in Sevastopol's immediate defense.

Balaklava was the scene of the storied "Charge of the Light Brigade" in the Crimean War of 1853-56.

Soviet dispatches said Red army defenders of Sevastopol, under assault by approximately 225,000 Axis troops, beat off a series of heavy attacks yesterday, but it seemed clear that the Germans were slowly battering their way into the ruined fortress city.

On the Kursk front, 500 miles north of Sevastopol, Red army headquarters reported that Marshal Timoshenko's forces were inflicting "colossal losses" on the Germans and had already knocked out 350 Nazi tanks in the three-day-old offensive.

"In one sector alone during the day, we killed 2,000 German officers and men," a Soviet communique said.

In the critical Egyptian battle theatre, latest reports said the British had not yet committed their main forces to the supreme effort of halting the Axis invasion, but it was apparent that a decisive test must come soon.

At the same time, conjecture arose as to the fate of nine demilitarized French warships at Alexandria in the event the base should have to be abandoned.

Still seaworthy, the French men of war include the 22,189-ton battleship Lorraine, four cruisers, three destroyers and a submarine. With the Axis sweep already having advanced 200 miles inside Egypt from the Libyan frontier, front-line dispatches said Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck was rushing fresh troops, new guns and supplies into the forward zone for a showdown battle.

Zero Hour Nears
British informants in Cairo said the "zero hour" for the critical struggle was near, and declared that thus far the British withdrawal was in keeping with General Auchinleck's plan to sacrifice ground in exchange for time needed to reorganize the mauled Imperial 8th Army.

A London spokesman said Alexandria was a "well-defended base," but that if it fell, the British Mediterranean fleet still would be able to operate from Port Said, at the northern entrance to the (Continued on Page 20)

Planning Civilian Evacuation Program

The Office of Civilian Defense and the Office of Defense, Health and Welfare Services are cooperating in the development of a civilian evacuation program. George S. Van Schaick, director of the Second Civilian Defense Region, announced today. Mr. Van Schaick emphasized that there was no present anticipation of an evacuation from any part of the United States and that under any circumstances no evacuation will take place except upon the specific advice or order of the military authorities. At the same time the Regional Director said that Americans must be prepared for any contingency, however remote. "I think it most unlikely that we will ever have to resort to mass or even partial evacuation, but it would never do for us to be caught without a well-planned program."

Mr. Van Schaick at the same time released the following statement from James M. Landis, United States director of the Office of Civilian Defense—

"We do not anticipate that it will ever be necessary to evacuate civilians from any area in the United States. Under present conditions, sporadic air raids seem to be the most the enemy could hope to carry out as a threat to this country. In view of the air raid precaution measures now being taken, the limited destruction that might result from such raids would be no reason for a general evacuation. Even during the heaviest bombing attacks on England the program only covered evacuation of some women, children and special groups. However, evacuation plans should be ready to meet any contingency."

Load of Hay Catches Fire

A load of hay being driven south on Route 9-W was found to be on fire shortly after midnight this morning. The Esopus fire truck responded to an alarm and laid 1,000 feet of hose to a brook, saving the truck after its burning load of 71 bales of hay had been thrown out along the highway. The driver of the truck was unable to account for the fire, unless some passing autoist had thrown a lighter cigarette into the load. The truck was a short distance south of Golden Rule Inn when the fire was discovered.

Hoarding of vitamin tablets is charged by Das Scharwe Korps, Himmler's paper, in Berlin as the result of a buying drive occasioned by Adolf Hitler's prediction of another winter of war. New Tax Stamps Must Be on All Cars Now in Use Midnight was the deadline for operation of a motor car on the public highways without having affixed one of the new $5 auto-use tax stamps. Today all motor cars must display the new revenue stamp which is procurable at post offices.

Unless the stamp is procured and displayed on the windshield beginning today drivers may find themselves in difficulty. Officials have reported that there will be a close check-up on the stamp tax. At any rate it will be impossible to secure a gas ration card during the July 9 to 11 period unless the stamp has been secured.

During July 9 to 11 registration for permanent gas ration cards will take place and the latest instructions are that the new cards will become effective on July 22. Many people faced with a gas shortage, poor tires and the final $5 stamp tax have decided to lay up their car for the duration.

The state revenue fell off a million dollars in May when gas tax revenue dropped that sum because of decreased motoring and rationing.

Today the July 1 quotas of gasoline were being delivered in retail tanks and for the next ten days that quota will have to suffice. Many "bone-dry" tanks were moistened and there was a quick line-up for fuel. The supply is expected to be exhausted before the ten day period is over and the next quota due.

Held for Intoxication

Philip Jones, 37, negro of Nantux, N. False Fire Alarms

Richmond, Va. (AP)—One hundred false fire alarms in the first six months of 1942 caused Richmond's fire chief, A. F. Taylor, to appeal to the public for aid in apprehending the "unpatriotic miscreants." He cited danger to life and property, loss of gasoline and the wear on rubber tires.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, July 1—Arrangements have been made for an observance of Independence Day this year somewhat different from other years. At 1:30 p. m. there will be a parade through the village led by the drum corps with the American Legion Colors, color guard of the members of the Woodstock Post, and children from various school districts throughout the village, who will carry the flags of the various allied nations. It will start at the Methodist Church, and proceed along the highway to Tannery Brook, down Tannery Brook road through the pines to the school house street, then along this street to the main highway and to the village green.

There will be a patriotic meeting and rally at 2 p. m. on the village green if the weather permits, and if not, at the Reformed Church. It will continue for one hour. Streets will be cleared of cars through the center of the village. Traffic will be diverted during the rally. A sound amplifying unit will be used.

Woodstock Post No. 1026, The American Legion and its Auxiliary are in charge in this area of the nationwide campaign to collect 37,500,000 old phonograph records. These will be ground up, pressed into new discs and made into new recordings of popular and classical music for the men in camp, aboard ship and overseas. Complete plans for the campaign, which will run from July 20 to August 2, will be announced later. Old records may be left at John Peper's garage, or with any Legion or Auxiliary member. In this campaign the Legion and Auxiliary are working with Records for Our Fighting Men, Inc., an organization of the nation's leading musicians and entertainers who are contributing their services to supply recordings.

Controlling the Ravenous Mexican Bean Beetle

Editor, The Freeman:

If the Geneva Experiment Station had known how many Freeman readers desired to know how to control the Mexican Bean Beetle, they doubtless would have given a little more detail on this ravenous garden pest.

After using arsenate several years without very good results, the writer has at last found out that they can be controlled successfully with Barium Fluosilicate, sold commercially as Dytux, used in dust form. A small hand duster is used on each side of the row and perhaps it would be well to go over the top if any beetles are visible. This will handle them if you get after them promptly.

Put the dust on when the air is quite still and quite early in the morning when the dew will help make it stick. This dust is not so poisonous as arsenate of lead so that it can be dusted on even after the beans are fit to use and washes off readily by dropping them in a pail of water and rinsing them afterwards. The reason that this remedy is more effective than the arsenate is that it is irritant where it touches the insects and in their attempts to remove it with their mouths, they get a dose of the poison before they would eat it on the leaves. As it is the larval stage of this insect working from the under side of the leaves, that raise the most mischief by scappling the leaves, hence, the arsenate treatment only gets them after they have eaten through the leaf. In the matter of job hanging bush beans it is almost impossible to spray the under side of the leaves. The editor of the Rural New Yorker tells me that he has controlled this rascal with the above treatment for several years and knows several other people on neighboring farms in New Jersey where this editor has a farm. This dust will also control the striped cucumber beetle which is one of the most difficult insects to handle, but daily treatment is almost needed in this case and plenty of watchfulness. This dust may also be effective in killing other pests of the garden like the cabbage worm and such as corn ear worm.

Just a brief life history of this insect might be useful to your readers. The beetles pass the winter under trash and the debris found commonly about back yards and hedgerows. They appear in late June on beans, and lay clusters of 20 to 50 orange-colored eggs on the lower surface of the beans. In about three weeks after the grubs come out of their egg stage, they are fully grown and ready to assume the resting or pupal stage which extends over a week or ten days. At the end of this period, the first brood of beetles appear and clusters of eggs are deposited in early August to begin a second crop of grubs and beetles. This latter crop of beetles are the ones that pass the winter. As soon as any planting of my beans have become ripe, I pull up the vines and confine them to a brush heap. Always remember that the eggs usually hatch in ten days and produce spiny lemon-yellow grubs which feed for the most part on the lower surfaces of the leaves.

Women in Army Plants Adequate As Replacements

Government operated arsenals, ordnance and supply depots, air fields, communication centers, and manufacturing units are finding American women adequate as replacements for men, the War Department is informed.

Information regarding the employment and training of civilian women in such army maintenance and manufacturing plants has been issued by the War Department Office of Civilian Personnel and Training, of which William H. Kushnick is director.

For the past year, a large number of women have been given classroom and on-the-job training for making guns, tanks, parachutes, bombs, clothing, and many other items for war use. Women are now employed by the War Department at the Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland, for the first time since this testing point was established in 1917.

One-fourth of the 700,000 civilian employees of the War Department are women, many of whom are working in technical and supervisory fields, some being trained as replacements for men who have joined the army.

Women are being hired in steadily increasing numbers in the Ordnance and Chemical Warfare Service arsenals, and the Signal Corps, the Quartermaster Corps and the Air Corps depots. Through the United States Employment Office, women are supplied with application blanks for jobs for which they consider themselves fitted. In many instances, once accepted, they are paid while undergoing instruction.

Several hundred women are now working in the fuse assembly shops of the ordnance arsenals, which manufacture the guns, bombs, and other fighting tools for the army. There are also several hundred women working as inspectors and engineering aides in these plants.

In the Quartermaster Corps, which manufactures and procures the soldiers' clothing, thousands of women do various types of textile work. They are successfully filling positions as inspectors, color testers, chemical workers, precision metal workers, and storage and distribution clerks. The Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot is now giving women training for the position of under textile inspector. Before the present war emergency, this job was held only by men. Women candidates for such appointments are given a three-month in-service training course.

The army air forces are gradually adding women mechanics to the air fields throughout the country as a part of its program to employ 25,000 women during the present calendar year.

Aberdeen Proving Ground is the main testing facility for the guns and other firearms used by the army. This unit employs 150 women. These are the first women to be assigned to disassembling and cleaning material for proof firing. They also reslash the material after firing in preparation for shipment to the using service of the army. Before the war most of them were clerks, stenographers, or salesgirls.

Training for these duties was given on-the-job by instructors chosen from the skilled employee groups. While the appearance of women on the proving ground caused a stir during the first days of their instruction, they are generally accepted now as part of the routine force.

If Not Soap, He's in the Soup
New York—The third letter of a four-letter word will decide the fate of Eng Lang Chinese restaurateur.

Summoned to court on a charge of having 10 pounds of rancid fat in his establishment, Eng nearly got fined when a health department inspector said Eng told him he was using the fat for soup.

But Eng spoke up and claimed he didn't say "soup," but "soap," and the court adjourned the hearing until Tuesday to determine whether the fact in the case involved the letter "u" or "a."

East Lansing, Mich.—Sunburn lotion for white pigs is the latest barnyard wrinkle recommended by Michigan State College's animal husbandry department.

"It seems that white pigs suffer from sunburn in pasture during the summer," the department bulletin says, suggesting use of a "perfumess" lotion composed of equal parts of lime water and raw linseed oil.

Constipation! Why Not Get and Keep Regular?

One of the commonest causes of constipation is simply this: Modern diets, superrefined, too often give us too little "bulk food." In such cases, dosing with cathartics and purges gives only temporary relief — the trouble comes back again and again. The way to more lasting relief is to get at the underlying cause and correct it.

You can do this by eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily. This delicious, toasty cereal supplies the needed "bulk." It acts pleasantly, works principally on the contents of the colon, helping you to have easy and normal elimination. In many cases, eating ALL-BRAN regularly and drinking plenty of water brings lasting freedom from constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not benefited by this simple treatment, see your doctor.

Decision on Kalter Case to Be Given Later by S. L. R. B.

Montgomery Ward Former Employee Charges Firm With Prejudice in Dismissal

The hearing before I. L. Broadwin, trial examiner for the State Labor Relations Board, in the matter of the alleged discharge because of union activities of Robert Kalter, a salesman employed last fall and until December 4 in the appliance department of the local Montgomery Ward store, concluded Tuesday evening after a day and a half had been spent in examining witnesses.

Much of Tuesday's session was devoted to questioning of Assistant Manager Hanley of the local store, who said that he had been in department store work for 12 years and connected with the Kingston store since September last year. He said that he generally had charge of the hiring of employees, with the exception of department heads, but that the manager had the final say when it came to discharging employees. He said that he did not hire or discharge Kalter.

Russell S. Keiter, for some time manager of the Ward store in Kingston, held that position at the time of Kalter's discharge. It is charged that Kalter was discharged on December 4 because of union activity, particularly in having arranged for a meeting the night of November 26 last for the purpose of organizing a union here. On the other hand, Attorney Brown, who represented the Ward Co. at the hearing, told the examiner that the company contents that Kalter was discharged because his services were not needed; that the appliance department could be run with two men instead of three.

Mr. Hanley was not permitted to testify as to the individual sales made by the three men in the department previous to Kalter's discharge and individual sales made by the two other salesmen after he had left the company's employ.

Examiner Broadwin did, however, place upon the record figures showing that during the period September to December, 1941, during which Kalter and two others were employed in the appliance department total sales were $26,685 and that during January and February, with two men, the total was $8,789.

Peter Lobello, employed for some time in the Ward store, as a furniture salesman and at times as a window trimmer, said that on the night of November 26, when the union organizing meeting was held, he worked overtime. He said that Mr. Hanley had told him that Manager Keiter wanted him to work. A work card was produced which showed that Lobello "checked out" that evening at 5:38 o'clock. The witness explained that he had been asked to work overtime after he had checked out and that he did not again punch the time clock, because he thought the work would not take over an hour, in which case he would not be paid for the extra time. He testified that he had done this a number of times when Mr. Keiter was manager; that when he worked an hour or more he was paid, but less than an hour's overtime was not paid for.

Lobello left the Ward Co. in April to take other work. H. E. Forester, manager of the Kingston store since January 20 this year, but who was not connected with the store during the period covering the present controversy, testified briefly, as did Mr. Brodie, of the Ward Co.'s New York office.

Examiner Broadwin, after reviewing the testimony taken during the present hearing, will report his findings to the State Labor Relations Board, which will hand down a decision later.

U. S. Carrier Takes Planes to Malta

was trying to send to reinforce Rommel's forces in Libya.

Drastring Action Taken

As a result of this remarkable showing, the German high command took drastic counter action, he said, concentrating overwhelming air forces in Sicily, which lies just north of Malta. These forces, Cunningham reported, bombed Malta to the point where it was "neutralized," that is virtually useless, as a base from which to strike at Axis shipping which in most cases passed about 200 miles to the east.

The heroic defenders of the battered island never yielded in their resistance, however, and the spot has remained as a constant threat to Rommel's rear, the effectiveness of his position depending on the reinforcements which might be moved in there.

Disclosure that the 14,700-ton Wasp had taken in these reinforcements, using at least some British pilots and planes, was the first revelation that British air units had been brought into such close cooperation with the American navy as to execute the extremely delicate operations involved in landing on and taking off from an aircraft carrier.

The communique specified the presence of British aircraft and R.A.F. pilots on only one of the ferry trips, but the announcement made it clear that at least two of these trips actually were successfully carried out.

It was considered possible, although not specifically stated, that American planes and American pilots also had participated in the actions attendant on the ferrying operations. There was no indication as to whether they had been left at Malta for the permanent reinforcement of that island.

The Wasp was the fourth vessel designed and built as an aircraft carrier for the navy. Authorized in 1934, it was constructed at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Fore River, Quincy, Mass., and was commissioned in 1940.

Loughran Gains Bar Admission

Appeals Justice Attends Ceremonies in Which Son Becomes Attorney

Among the 26 candidates who were admitted to the bar Tuesday in ceremonies before the Appellate Division was John B. Loughran, of Kingston, son of Judge John T. Loughran, senior associate judge of the Court of Appeals. After attending local schools Mr. Loughran attended Fordham University and Fordham Law School, where his father prior to his election as Supreme Court justice in this district, was a professor of law. "Jack," as he is known to his friends, passed the bar examination and was one of those who appeared before the Appellate Division yesterday for admission to the bar.

Among the new lawyers admitted yesterday were Frank P. Myers, Jr., son of Supreme Court Stenographer Myers of Albany, a soldier, a sailor and two women. Associate Justice John C. Craspe delivered the welcoming address. Robert M. Ortale of Kingston was the second local man to be admitted.

Memorial tribute to the late Gilbert D. B. Hasbrouck, once a member of the high court, was delivered yesterday before the Appellate division. Resolutions were read by Judge John T. Loughran, Senator Charles W. Walton and Harold J. Hinman, former official referee. Robert E. Whalen was chairman of the committee designated by the Albany County Bar Association to draft the memorial resolution for the Albany group. This committee consisted of Mr. Whalen, Judge Hinman and former Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley.

The judge took that fact into consideration and suspended sentence. Dr. Jane Edwin Pearce of Baltimore, Md., charged with failing to observe a full-stop sign, forfeited bail she had posted by not appearing in court today.

COAL THIEF LOCKED IN
A man in Dublin, Eire, unwittingly caught a coal thief when he locked his coal-house door. He saw 500 precious pounds placed in his coal-house, and left for the corner with his wife. At the theatre his wife asked: "Did you lock the coal house?" He rushed back and locked up. When they returned from the theatre they found a crowd and police. Cries came from the coal-house. The man unlocked the door. Inside was a woman from next door with a half-filled sack of coal.

Ham Timbales
(Leftover Hit)
1 cup soft bread crumbs
2/3 cup hot milk
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 teaspoon minced parsley
1 teaspoon minced onions
1/4 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups chopped cooked ham
4 egg yolks (or 2 whole eggs)
Mix and fill buttered baking pans or custard cups. Bake in pan for 25 minutes. Unmold and surround with any savory sauce or creamed vegetable.

Fruit Fritters
1 cup flour
1 1/4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup granulated sugar
1/4 cup milk
1 egg or 2 yolks
2 tablespoons fat, melted
2/3 cup cubed pineapple or peaches or apricots
Mix and drop portions into deep hot fat. Fry 4 minutes.
Drain, sprinkle with sugar and accompany fish, fowl or meats. Or serve warm with lemon or cherry sauce for dessert.

Try this apricot glaze for berry and fruit tarts: Wash 1/2 pound dried apricots, soak over night (or 12 hours) in 1 1/2 cups water.
Simmer, covered, 15 minutes.
Press through sieve and add 1/3 cup sugar and 1 teaspoon lemon water.

For a subtle curry flavor, put a tablespoon of curry powder into each quart (4 cups) boiling water required to cook the rice.

Canoeists Gave Bomber
Crew 'Lift' on Journey

Somewhere in Australia, July 1 (AP)—
Native canoeists gave the crew members of a United States bomber a lift on the journey back to their base after the plane sank in the Coral Sea. Corp. Donald Welch of Berlin, N. H., said today.
Welch, from a hospital bed, said the bomber was forced down at night and sank in four minutes.
"I smashed a window to get out," Welch said. "One member of the crew had a dislocated back so we put him on the collapsible raft and the rest of us clung to the sides and paddled three miles to an island."

"When we reached the island, it was raining buckets, but we got a fire going and stayed beside it all night. The next morning we started walking along the beach when three native canoes happened along."
They took us to the mainland, where we found some natives tending another wounded American pilot at a village. We stayed at the village for a while and then carried the wounded through the jungle to a deserted mission station where we got transportation back to an allied base.

Welch said he was scratched up a bit, but was eager to get back on the job.

Need Better Food For War Workers

Ithaca, N. Y.—"The war worker who labors at top speed and long hours needs proper food."

"Need for the right foods has now become acute in the war industries, with plants in remote areas and with limited food facilities both in and outside the plant."

"A study discloses that many plants employing more than 1,000 workers have no cafeterias. Workers, moreover, travel long distances to work, which means little or no breakfast, an inadequate 'carried' lunch, and a late or cold dinner."

These statements were made by Dr. M. R. Mayers of the state department of labor at a two-day meeting of the New York state nutrition committee at Cornell. He said the labor department can arrange a food program for workers suited for different areas and activities. Purpose of the sub committee on industrial feeding, he pointed out, is to promote good eating facilities both within and outside war plants, and to help provide healthful and safe conditions for workers. Other members of this committee include various state and county officials: Sarah G. Blanding, Cornell; Marie Porter, Marquette Queneau, and Dorothy Williams, all of Albany; Dr. Samuel Hyman, Utica; W. Travis Wilson, American Red Cross; Mrs. Edmund Marth, Elmira; Dr. C. M. McCay, Cornell; and several assistant industrial commissioners of the state. Others will be added.

Aviation Experts
Predict Revolution
In Plane ValuesIf War Lasts Five Years
Aerial Carriers Would Be in Use, Carry
Dozen CraftBy BILL BONI
(Wide World Military Editor)

Washington, July 1—If this is to be a long war—say five years—then at least part of present speculation on the future of aviation may take concrete form and bring out new types of aircraft and methods of handling them which even Gen. Billy Mitchell might not have foreseen.

Naval aviation experts, for instance, notably Capt. Charles E. Rosendahl, have a pet project by which this country could produce a fleet of aerial aircraft carriers—rigid airships which, of 10,000,000 cubic feet compared to the 6,500,000 of the Akron and the Macon, each could carry 10 to 12 planes which could be dive-bombers, scouts and fighters.

Such aircraft carriers, while they would be vulnerable to mass aerial attack, could carry heavy defensive armament, would be quite maneuverable in dodging enemy planes, and if shot down, would represent nowhere near the loss entailed in either of men which goes to the bottom of the sea with a seagoing carrier.

In addition, their sponsors point out, for the price of one seagoing carrier we could build enough airships to carry the same number of planes, and at the same time would not be putting all our eggs in one basket.

What's more, they claim, an airship carrier would be able to reach its objective much more quickly (a 10,000-mile range at 60 miles per hour with 10 planes), while it would not be affected in its operation by rough seas and unfavorable wind conditions which are the hazards a seagoing carrier must face.

Another argument offered in favor of such carriers is the fact they could be built with a very slight drain on our supplies of strategic materials, notably metals and a strong likelihood that the further development of plastics might make it possible to eliminate the use of such materials entirely.

But such airships could not be built overnight, even if the rest of the navy and Congress could be persuaded that they are what we need. In fact, for all that aviation is the fastest mode of transport yet discovered, it takes considerable time to design a new type of aircraft, test it for performance, incorporate whatever changes or modifications are necessary, and then get it into production.

We ourselves have produced no absolutely new types of combat planes since the outbreak of the war in Europe in September, 1939. All the fighters, bombers and other planes now seeing action are based either on designs or prototypes we had at that time.

But then, the Germans haven't produced anything radically new either. That is, they haven't had time to have been working on this last winter and spring—a conclusion which would appear logical from the fact that they used their air force sparingly. This could be due to a desire to keep intact what they had while production was halted on one type and begun on another.

Installation of a new production line, according to the best estimates, can be carried out only at a sacrifice of time in which 2,000 to 3,000 of the older type planes could have been delivered.

We are, however, going to have radically new types and considerably improved versions of present, aircraft, since that improvement process is being carried on constantly in all of our aircraft plants. Just when the new planes can be expected to go into action is something the enemy would dearly love to know.

Medical Miracles

Cheating Death on War's Battlefields

By ALEXANDER GEORGE
Wide World Features Writer
Washington—You can count on four great medical developments since World War I to save the lives and speed the recovery of thousands of badly-wounded American soldiers and sailors in World War II.

The four, which already have amazed doctors with their potency, are:

The sulfa drugs, used externally and internally.

Blood plasma enabling many transfusions in a short time.

Notable advances since 1918 in chest and brain surgery.

Mobile equipment affording quicker care of the wounded.

Veteran army and navy doctors in combat areas report they have never seen anything like the results obtained from the direct use of sulfa drugs on wounds.

Mobile equipment affording quicker care of the wounded.

BARRIER AGAINST DEATH—Blood plasma is saving lives of men who might otherwise die from shock, exhaustion or loss of blood. Here, Capt. Robert Sparkman prepares the plasma by mixing the flaky elixir with distilled water.

applying sulfanilamide to wounds and burns and by using plasma transfusions to counteract the shock of heavy and multiple injuries has become an epic of military medicine.

It is conservatively estimated that use of the sulfa drugs will reduce fatalities 25 to 30 per cent among the severely wounded. A special commission of medical men is studying how to improve the use of the sulfa in treating blood-dissolving streptococcal infections. In the first World War, some 70 per cent of deaths due to wound infections were attributed to this blood destruction.

Every American soldier in a battle area now carries a small box of sulfanilamide tablets. On the box are instructions for him to take the tablets if he is wounded.

Plasma, the fluid part of the blood, is better than whole blood in severe shock. The blood is collected from volunteer donors by the Red Cross, and the plasma is separated from the blood cells in a machine somewhat similar to a cream separator. It is dried like powdered milk, and the plasma powder can be stored for years.

Medical corps officers expect the improvement in operating technique, particularly for chest and brain wounds, to result in a considerable reduction of the mortality rate.

Medical service has been speeded up to keep pace with swifter warfare. Air ambulances evacuate the wounded from a battle field to a general hospital in a few hours. The army has mobile surgical hospitals equipped with the finest operating apparatus, electric generators and water tanks. Each "hospital on wheels" can handle 80 operations a day.

Light, portable X-ray machines can be swung into action on a battle field within a few minutes. A new, 100,000 volt X-ray apparatus is carried in five suitcases. It can be assembled and put into operation by even untrained soldiers to give doctors accurate X-ray pictures within a few minutes after a soldier is brought to a hospital.

A flock of new weapons for fighting disease has been developed since the first World War. All our soldiers now are inoculated for tetanus and yellow fever as well as smallpox and typhoid. Those serving in areas where cholera, typhus and the plague are prevalent will be vaccinated against those diseases.

The sulfa drugs and other chemical agents are very effective in combating various "strep" conditions.

The medical corps has its "G-2," a board composed of several committees of outstanding doctors in the country who analyze all phases of soldier health. And there are doctors now who will go to the aid of the wounded on the battle field via parachute. They are the young medics who are attached to the parachute units.

British Retreat Is Not Easy Pickings for NazisGovernor Asks More
Rubber Be Sought

Albany, N. Y., July 1 (AP)—New Yorkers are urged by Governor Lehman to "search out on their premises every piece of rubber that can be salvaged" in a concerted effort to improve the state's "very disappointing" scrap rubber showing.

"Most of our sister states have obtained to date far better results than New York on a pounds per capita basis," he declared.

The national situation is "so serious," the governor said, "that President Roosevelt has extended the scrap rubber drive from June 30 to July 10 so as to give us an additional ten days in which to come across."

Hale Says Bomber
Crews Do Well in
Pacific AttacksLong-Range Combat Shows
Teamwork of American Fliers, Commander of Area Reports

Headquarters, Hawaiian Air Forces, July 1 (AP)—American bomber crews are "meeting the challenge of long-range combat operations which in the Pacific area have opened a new chapter in air warfare," Major General Willis H. Hale, commanding U. S. air forces in the mid-Pacific, said today.

He cited the June 27 raid on Jap-held Wake island, 2,000 nautical miles west of Pearl Harbor, as an example.

General Hale disclosed that Col. Roger M. Ramey, of Denton, Tex., led the army bombers on their long over-water mission which leveled the ground defenses on Wake, and commended the pilots, navigators and bombardiers for their "fine teamwork."

The general in his first interview since being appointed to his new command, said that air forces "will be the controlling factor in the Pacific" and that American forces "are fighting as one team—army, navy and marines."

But he warned that the show-down is yet to come and that it "looks like a long, hard job."

"We are strong, but so is the enemy," he said. "The Japanese have real planes, manned by real fighters who are highly skilled and well trained."

Meanwhile the Japanese are to be kept guessing what is coming next.

"Our real punches," General Hale declared, "will tell their own story as our army-navy team delivers them."

He disclosed that one of the actions in the southwest Pacific had revealed the Japanese were using women as warplane pilots. He gave no further details except to say that none of the women pilots was captured.

Prior to this, it was known that Japanese women served as gunners in warplanes and there also have been other cases of Japanese women in combat. During the assault on Lingayen, on Luzon Island in the Philippines, Japanese women in regulation army uniform were used in an assault against tanks.

Telling further of aviation's role in naval warfare, General Hale said:

"We know that airplanes can sink battleships and their only protection is other airplanes. No one will risk his carrier in the range of land-based aviation. The Japs did it at Midway, but didn't know they were doing it. I think they didn't have the slightest knowledge of what they would run into."

Says Desmond Is Qualified
Candidate for Governor

1481 Shakespeare Ave.
Bronx, New York City
June 30, 1942

Editor of the Kingston Freeman,
Kingston,
New York,

Dear Sir:

If Republican party leaders are really seeking a qualified candidate for governor who knows state government and has demonstrated his administrative ability, they ought to nominate State Senator Thomas C. Desmond of Newburgh.

A successful business executive, Senator Desmond was chosen last year as a life trustee of both Union College and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Twelve years of service in the state senate have made him well informed on state problems.

What keeps Senator Desmond from political advancement is probably his fearless devotion to the public interest. He never caters to professional politicians and is the sort of man who would rather be right than be governor.

Respectfully yours,

General Auchinleck Is Doing Big Job With Withdrawal; Axis
Force Is FaggedBy DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

Nazi Field Marshal Rommel has thrust his armored columns closer to the heart of Egypt, and the allied position continues extremely grave.

That grim fact isn't without some slight solace for the defense, however. The German leader's already dangerously extended communications have been still further lengthened and there are signs that his troops are becoming fagged from the fierce drive which has carried them to within 100 miles of Britain's key naval and air base at Alexandria.

Meantime General Sir Claude Auchinleck, canny Scots commander of the British forces in the middle east, has been fighting a retraining action to give him time to reorganize his battered army and receive further reinforcements. The main battle hasn't yet been joined, but it can't be far in the offing. When it comes much will depend on the British power of counter-attack.

If the war has seemed far away and unreal to some of us, this great crisis should bring it very close, for upon a sweeping success in the battle for Egypt, Hitler might build a victory which would bridge the Atlantic and threaten the security of our very homes. We see a manifestation of the vital importance of the situation in the British House of Commons where critics of the government today are demanding that Prime Minister Churchill give an accounting of his stewardship.

All of us know, of course, that the Nazi leader's chances of winning the war depend on his breaking through to fresh supplies this year. We know, too, that the only feasible route are the Caucasus and the middle east, with their rich oil deposits and other resources.

Offensives Correlated

Moreover it's clear that Hitler's offensives in the Ukraine and in Egypt are correlated, and that if both of them are successful they will form a vast pair of pincers which will grip Britain's interests in the eastern Mediterranean. What may not be so apparent, however, is how a Nazi victory in Egypt alone might have ramifications which would give the rest of the middle east into the clutching hands of the German all highest.

If Alexandria should fall it might be the fatal blow to John Bull's control of the eastern Mediterranean. It's true, as London points out, that he might retire with his warships to Port Said, Egypt, or to Haifa, Palestine, but those ports aren't properly equipped to mother a fleet. The naval force would be in the position of a cavalryman who has had his charger replaced by a burro.

Moreover, capture of Alexandria would render Port Said and Cairo vulnerable, and if these two places fell into Hitler's hands, he would be master of Egypt. With the British navy and airforce unable to protect the Mediterranean routes, the Axis could pour troops and equipment into Egypt and smash directly at the middle east through Palestine.

You can carry this unhappy hypothetical situation on until the Axis has overrun the middle east and is striking at the Russian left flank up through the Caucasus, while driving against the Soviet line in the Ukraine. Meantime the Japs would swarm the Indian Ocean and make juncture with Hitler. Indian nationalists would then have a chance to apply their theory of passive resistance to a Nipponese invasion.

One wouldn't think that any further dangers could be lurking in the bushes, but there is still another. There is always the possibility that the fall of Alexandria and Cairo would precipitate an uprising of the Arab peoples in the many countries they inhabit in Africa and the middle east.

Mussolini, self styled protector of Islam, and Hitler have long been trying to stir the Arabs to revolt and form the federation which the Arabian nations have sought. The situation isn't helped by the fact that many of the Arabs who came to Britain's rescue in the last war claim she failed to keep the promises she made to them through Lawrence of Arabia.

I'm afraid this isn't a pleasant summary, but it's best that we look at our hazards squarely.

Gives Big Section of Persons Unable to Assist in War

Denver, July 1 (AP)—Ten million American adults are lost to war industry and the armed forces, the United States commissioner of education declared today, because they can't read newspapers or simple printed directions, or write letters or A-B-C instructions.

"The are the functionally illiterate," said John W. Studebaker of Washington, D. C., in an address for delivery before the National Education Association annual convention, who are "seriously handicapped as soldiers and as workers—not because they are unintelligent but because they find it exceedingly difficult to understand."

Culminating a long fight against illiteracy, Studebaker said, the U. S. Office of Education has prepared a program "which we hope will shortly be submitted to the Congress."

Discussion of its details now would be premature, the commissioner explained, but he went on: "Our eventual goal must be a population taught to read and write and figure in its youth—a population to whom accessible free public schools and good teaching are everywhere available."

The "figuring lost to us in this hour of peril" through inability to read and write, Studebaker said, "may number some of our best intellects and capabilities."

GRANGE NEWS

New Paltz

New Paltz, July 1—The regular session of Huguenot Grange which met in Grange hall Saturday evening. Visitors present were Mr. Story, the county deputy, and Mrs. Ball, the county service and hospitality chairman and others. At the meeting it was decided to hold a picnic in the woods of Ralph Johnson on July 18. The following program was then enjoyed: Song by the Grange; composition, "Our Flag," read by Miss Mary Deyo; Miss Helen Bleeker sang, "Alice Gown" and "Still Is the Night," accompanied by Miss Margaret V. Newton at the piano; Miss Louise Young read a poem, "My Country"; singing, "My Old Kentucky Home," by the Grange; a skit entitled, "The Letter," followed and a recreation number which concluded the program. The men were hosts with Charles Mertz, Jr., as chairman. Ice cream, home made cake and coffee were served and a social hour.

FEW DRIVE IN EIRE NOW

Few owners of private cars are permitted to drive in Eire now. Motoring is confined to ministers of state, leaders of the Opposition, government and local officials who cannot carry out their duties without a car, judges and justices attending their courts, senators and members of the Dail Eireann from country constituencies, representatives of foreign countries, clergymen, doctors, veterinary surgeons, midwives and some transport officials. Owners of private cars with gas-producer equipment are not restricted.

Nyack Women Go
Smile-Shopping
To Check Prices

Nyack, N. Y., July 1 (AP)—Rally round for the story of one of the strangest shopping sprees on record, or, how a woman's smile can sway the butcher, the baker, the dressmaker.

It's a tale of how the Office of Price Administration hit the jackpot by calling upon housewives to acquaint storekeepers with the new price ceiling regulations.

"Just tell your butcher (or baker or dressmaker) about the 'frozen' prices," read the O.P.A. instructions, "and while doing it, smile."

And so a little band of 35 housewives from estates hereabouts left their marketing bags and money at home yesterday and set out to "buy" with smiles the cooperation of their tradespeople.

Their excursion was a preview of similar campaigns which the O.P.A. is asking 50,000,000 of American women to conduct in their communities so that every retailer is informed of the ordered price ceilings.

NEW THEATRE FOR U. S. MEN

U. S. soldiers, sailors and marines are seeing first run American pictures in a new modernly equipped theatre opened in Panama's second city, Colon. The largest playhouse in the city, its sound and projector equipment were supplied by U. S. manufacturers. Army and navy men get special rates. Military personnel has increased theatre attendance greatly.

DUEL DOCTORS UNNEEDED

Four doctors were present, but not a single drop of blood was shed when Dr. Victorica Roca and Dr. Mario Costex duelled with pistols near Buenos Aires, Argentina. Dr. Castex fired into the air. Dr. Roca's shot was equally ineffective although the two rival politicians were standing 30 paces apart. The four doctors retired without having had to go into action. The contestants were equally frustrated, for they refused to be reconciled.

Ortiz Retirement Is Taken To Mean Good Things for U. S.

By JOHN GROVER

Paradoxical as it seems, the resignation of President Roberto Ortiz of Argentina, good friend of the U. S., is taken by most informed students of Latin America to mean that the United States is consistently out-manoeuvring the Axis in the contest for Argentine cooperation.

Ortiz, in his farewell statement, said he did not resign two years ago when his physical condition became serious, simply because he wished to lend his influence to the fight against the Axis threat in Argentina. By inference, his resignation says that the threat is ended and he can safely retire to nurse his failing health.

Many factors have contributed to the improvement in U. S.-Argentine relations. There are strong indications that the powerful conservative, isolationist bloc headed by Acting President Ramon S. Castillo is ready to climb on the bandwagon of the democracies. Certainly the "prudent neutrality" policy that was accounted an Axis diplomatic victory is in for an overhauling.

Recently Argentina relaxed the exchange restrictions that halved U. S. exports before the war. The chamber of deputies, lower house of the Argentine congress, within the past fortnight has soundly rebuffed the Axis in demanding explanations of policy from Foreign Minister Enrique Ruiz Guinazu and Minister of Interior Miguel Culaciati.

The Axis has been bristling trying to cut its own throat in Argentina, with marked success. The stupid sinking of several Argentine merchantmen aroused a fierce storm of anti-Axis sentiment, which continues to grow.

Even the conservative bloc in the chamber of deputies deserted Castillo after the sinkings to vote the demand for explanations from the "prudent neutral" cabinet members.

There is strong evidence that Castillo has been forced to take cognizance of the welling anti-Axis tide. The notes to Germany concerning the ship losses have been ultimatum-sharp. A press

"gag" rule issued under the state of siege proclaimed many months ago by Castillo was hastily revised and called "an error."

Castillo's previous "state of siege" throttling of the press largely benefited the Axis. "El Pampero," the Nazi newspaper, was curbed but little, while pro-Ally papers were rigidly held to innocuous discussions.

Castillo's "prudent neutrality" with an Axis bias, seemed like good common sense when spectacular Axis victories promised an early end to the war. With the whole picture changed by the entry of the U. S. into the war, the position of the Argentine conservatives has been increasingly uncomfortable.

The U. S. has been buying heavily of Argentine produce, at a time when other Argentine markets were shot to pieces. Another powerful factor arguing for closer cooperation with the U. S. is growing uneasiness over the way Brazil is capitalizing on U. S. aid to consolidate its position in South America.

Argentina has been the No. 1 power in South America proper, but American aid gratefully given to Brazil for Brazil's outstanding contributions to hemisphere solidarity is pushing that nation rapidly forward. Argentina now knows that she missed the brass ring. There is a growing element in Argentine ruling circles that would retrieve as much as possible by abandoning prudent neutrality and plunging for hemisphere solidarity.

Many Washington experts familiar with the Argentine picture profess to see the influence of Gen. Augustin P. Justo, former president and behind-the-scenes boss, in the veering of Argentina away from the Axis. Justo is a hard-headed realist, who engineered the coalition ticket that put both Ortiz and Castillo in office.

If Justo has decided that Argentina's advantage lies in joining the democracies and giving the hot-foot to the Axis, it is a notable gain in the war of diplomacy. All in all, everything points to the fact that Argentina is proceeding with caution but steadily, to take an anti-Axis stand with her sister nations of this hemisphere.

Consumers Can Help Dairymen

Health Effort Aided by Using More Milk

Ithaca, N. Y.—New York's dairy industry, a billion dollar one, reaches its production peak each June, and dairymen are seeking consumer support to help take care of the seasonal surplus of milk through greater purchases of milk and dairy products.

Food experts point out that milk and dairy products are among the most economical purchases the family can make and they recommend them for good health.

Professor Helen Morsch of the New York State College of Economics gives these facts on the food value of milk:

Milk is a cheap food at any cost, considering the food value it gives. Grow-ups as well as children need it; and from a pint to a quart a day should be allowed for each member of the family.

The fact that milk is the sole food of the new-born infant and that it continues to be a main influence in his diet throughout childhood shows its importance in growth. A young child can get the material he needs for building strong bones and teeth only through milk.

Milk is rich in the minerals calcium and phosphorus. In addition, whole milk has a high place among foods because of the quality of its protein (ranking with meat, eggs and fish), the value, abundance and variety of its vitamins, and the energy which its fat and sugar yield.

The daily quota of milk can be eaten through other forms than fresh whole milk, as in cheeses, milk soups, or creamed dishes, but substitution of cheese for all of the daily milk quota is not recommended. It is better for adults to use part milk and part cheese.

The following are about equal in the food values for which milk is primarily important: One quart of fluid whole milk; 17 ounces of evaporated milk; one quart of skimmilk plus 1½ ounces of butter; five ounces of American dried whole milk; and 3½ ounces (Cheddar) cheese; 4½ ounces of dried skimmilk plus 1½ ounces of butter.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, July 1—Mrs. Edmund Wager and children of Plattkill were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wright, on Sunday.

Charles Turner has been elected second vice president of the Hudson Valley Firemen's Association. Ralph Johnson of New Paltz, district superintendent of schools, addressed the graduating class of the Rock School in the Rifton Hall on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Warren of Plattkill visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ingraham, on Sunday.

Miss Edna Dugan has returned after spending her vacation in Gardiner.

The church school board met in the Methodist Church parlor Monday evening.

Jay Lawrence and friend, B. B. Baker, of Fort Lauderdale, Florida, are at the Lawrence camp at Williams Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Van Wageningen and daughter of Irvington, N. J., have been visiting relatives here and in Highland.

Lawrence Hanna of Bayside, L. I., came to New Paltz last week to attend the funeral of his mother.

Since the opening of the local defense course in metal working considerable farm machinery has been repaired. The course which opened June 8 will continue to carry on with its farm machinery repair program. Farmers in the area who have any broken machinery parts which can be repaired by electric or acetylene welding are invited to bring or send these parts to the defense course at the New Paltz High School in the vocational agricultural shop. John Taylor, the instructor, is at the Atlantic Service Station on Main street during the day where he can be consulted regarding these repairs. The school is in session every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evening from 7 to 11 o'clock at the high school. The new Atlas metal working lathe has been received and as soon as it is set up members of the defense course will be given an opportunity to learn basic machining skills. The procedure will be similar to that used in industrial plants throughout the country. Boys from farms who enroll in the vocational agricultural courses next September will be given an opportunity to learn welding as well as lathe operation and machine maintenance. Every effort will be made to make these courses as helpful in the war effort as possible.

Mrs. George E. Johnston, with her grandson, Jay Lawrence, and his friend, B. B. Baker, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., have arrived in New Paltz for the summer. Mrs. D. V. Z. Bogert met them in New York on Wednesday. They made the trip from the south to New York by train and from there to New Paltz by bus.

Mrs. Mabel A. Schneider had the misfortune to fall and fracture a bone in her arm while feeding her poultry one morning recently. She was taken to the office of Dr. Virgil B. DeWitt for treatment and is getting along nicely. The accident happened on Mrs. Schneider's 29th wedding anniversary.

Murals For Air Field

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—Mural paintings which have attracted wide recognition decorate the day room of one of the school squadrons at Luke Field, near here, because Pvt. Francis S. Donini, of Cleveland, was ambitious to do something better than paint numbers on airplanes. The murals depict the past, present and future of the air corps advanced training base. Pictured are Lt. Frank Luke, Jr., the Arizona balloon buster of the world war for whom the field is named; the late Capt. Colin Kelly; Brig. Gen. Ennis C. Whitehead, field commandant; Major W. L. Hall, commanding officer of the field, with purple mountains in the background and hangars and ramp in the foreground; profiles of President Roosevelt and General Douglas MacArthur, and a life-sized portrait of a flier in full equipment. Before he enlisted, Pvt. Donini was display manager for a department store, and worked in pastel and fresco. He was assisted in the murals by Pvt.

James W. Newbold, also of Cleveland, cartoonist and free lance artist.

YOUR FOOD-AND NUTRITION

Kidneys are a good source of all the B vitamins, especially riboflavin. Nutrition experts declare that the diet of most adults is apt to be deficient in the important B vitamins. Even a slight deficiency may be responsible for lack of energy, loss of appetite, and an indefinite feeling of ill health. For buoyant health, a well-balanced diet, including protein, minerals and all the essential vitamins is needed.

A wider use of meat specialties, such as liver, heart and kidneys, will not only add to the nutritive value of meals, but is frequently an economy as well. And it adds to the variety of delicious main dishes you may serve.

For instance, for something different in stews, use beef kidneys. Kidneys are not only a good source of protein, as is all meat, but they contain minerals and vitamins, especially vitamin A and factors of the vitamin B group.

To prepare kidneys, wash them thoroughly and remove the outer membrane. Then split them through the center and remove the fat and heavy veins. To improve their flavor, many cooks let them stand for some time in a well-seasoned French dressing.

Can Be Used in Stew
Beef, veal, lamb and pork kidneys are all used. Veal and pork kidneys are all tender enough to broil, but beef kidneys require cooking in moist heat. However, any of them can be used in combination with beef cubes.

Kidneys may be split, or sliced

Delicious Kidney Stew

Kidney stew, delight of epicures, is as nutritious as it is tempting. Potatoes, carrots and green beans are cooked with kidney cubes in this delicious arrangement. The liquid is thickened for gravy, which is served separately.

thin or cut into even pieces. Roll them in flour seasoned with salt and pepper and paprika. Brown them in fat, add just enough water to cover. Cover the kettle and cook at a simmering temperature until they are tender. Vegetables may be added to the stew just long enough before the end of the cooking time, so that both will be done at the same time.

Steak and kidney pie, an old-time favorite, is another form of kidney stew. The stew is placed in a casserole. After the meat is cooked, it is topped with pastry or baking powder biscuits, then baked for about 15 minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees F.).

Philadelphia Kidney Stew
1 large beef kidney
4 tablespoons lard
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
4 onions, cut fine
1 carrot, diced
12 small potatoes
Salt and pepper
1 tablespoon vinegar

Cut the kidney in half. Remove the outer membrane and heavy veins. Soak for an hour in cold salted water. Dry with a cloth

Health for Victory Club Meeting Is Held at Y. M. C. A.

The second meeting of the Hercules Powder Company's Health for Victory Club was held in the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening and was opened by Jennie Lucchese, Hercules company nurse, who is directing the activities of the club. Rita Abbruzzese, home service director for the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., explained the conservation of essential food values in vegetables, as she demonstrated protective, or vitaminized, cooking. Preceding the demonstration, musical saw and mandolin solos were played by William Sagar of Bloomington, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Charles A. Johnston of New Paltz.

This club was organized by E. P. Rochford, superintendent of the Hercules Company, to provide practical, helpful information on wartime meal planning and preparation, and membership is open to employees and adult members of their families. The Health for Victory Club is being conducted with the cooperation of the Central Hudson Company.

At the meeting Tuesday evening Miss Abbruzzese, who is arranging the meeting programs for Health for Victory Clubs of valley war industries, showed that protective cooking can easily be accomplished in any home with the utensils and cooking equipment now used there. Utilizing six different fresh vegetables and eight varieties of pots and pans, commonly found in the average kitchen, she illustrated how the maximum nutritive values can be retained from the time the vegetables are brought into the kitchen until they reach the dining table. She was assisted by Lucy Etta Sotherton, Central Hudson home economist for the Kingston District, who is available for personal conferences with club members every Wednesday afternoon from 1:30 to 4:30 at the local utility office, and also by appointment.

A sound motion picture, called V-men, was shown by J. Ellis Briggs of the Central Hudson Co., who is assisting war industries in the region in organizing their Health for Victory Clubs. This film revealed the scientific laboratory tests by which the effects of cooking methods on vitamin retention were definitely proved.

Sour Milk Is Aid to Cooks

Food Value Is Little Changed by Fermentation

Ithaca, N. Y.—A good cook uses sour milk or sour cream for many choice dishes which have delicate flavor and smooth texture, according to Helen Monsch of the New York State College of Home Economics.

Women living on farms where milk is not pasteurized should plan to use all their sour milk and cream, she says. Cornbread, waffles, griddle cakes, cole slaw, cucumber salad, and raspberry sherbet are included in the long list of foods made with these ingredients.

Little of the food value in fresh milk or cream is lost in souring and for best results the milk or cream should sour quickly, Miss Monsch points out. Milk or cream soured in this way will contain enough acid to react with the soda, which is always used with it, and leaven the dough.

Too much soda, or soda added directly to sour milk is not advised by food chemists, as the chemical action should be slow and steady. Half a teaspoonful of soda for every cup of sour milk or cream called for in the recipe, sifted with the flour and other dry ingredients will bring best results.

The substitution of sour cream for part of the fat used in cakes, cookies and pastry filling is advocated by food specialists. It may also be used in the preparation of meats and soups, and added to meat gravy.

Vegetable dishes to which sour cream may be added as a sauce include new boiled potatoes, asparagus, beans, spinach, fried tomatoes and boiled cabbage.

Householder's Soliloquy

To junk or not to junk; that is the question: Whether 'tis practical to keep on saving.

The truck and rubbish of out-dated purpose, Or to take time to clear out cellar, attic.

Of every fire hazard? To keep old stuff No more; and with one sweep to find we end.

The sentimental, indecisive mood We waste much time in, 'Tis a consummation.

Instant to be reached. To wait, to hold;

To Prize—and just for what? Ay, there's the point: For in that call for refuse that has come.

When everything once useless now avails, There is our cue. There's the respect.

That ought to help us straighten out our homes. Such salvaging makes patriots of us all;

And thus the bother or irresolution Must yield to the demands of common sense.

And boxes, rags, and what-not, long collected, At last take on a meaning: To supply

The war to save our dearest things worth saving.

—Edmund J. Kiefer

Elsie—Is Madge still looking for her ideal man?

Ruth—Good heavens, no! She's far too busy looking for a husband.

About the only thing a modern girl takes any trouble to hide is her embarrassment.

Mother—What? A 20-page letter from that soldier friend of yours at camp. What did he say?

Daughter—He says he loves me.

If dogs at large could be trained to collect bones for salvage city by-laws might be eased a bit.

To Have And To Hold
Yes, to this thought I hold with firm persistence.

The last results of wisdom stamps it true; He only earns his freedom and existence

Who daily conquers them anew. —Goethe

"Never argue with a woman whose feet are killing her."

We Met On Roads Of Laughter
We met on roads of laughter; both careless at the start.

But other roads came after and wound around my heart. There are roads a wise man misses, and roads where fools will try

To say farewell with kisses, touch love and say goodbye.

We met on roads of laughter—now wistful roads depart. For I must hurry after to overtake my heart.

—Charles Divine.

EMPTY CRADLES SCORED
An empty cradle is one of the greatest menaces confronting English civilization, Sir Evelyn Wrench, founder of the Overseas League and the English-speaking Union, told a civic gathering recently at Wellington, New Zealand. An Australia peopled by 25,000,000 persons and a New Zealand with a 5,000,000 population would be great stabilizing factors in the South Pacific, he said in emphasizing the need of making full use of the resources.

Divisions Listed

The classified service includes all positions not specifically listed as being in the unclassified service. Its major divisions are: competitive class, non-competitive class and exempt class.

All persons who have been in the position a year prior to the date when civil service goes into effect in the county are protected by a blanket right with full privileges. If not they must take an open competitive examination.

Having adopted the County Civil Service Commission plan the county is now bound to continue that form of civil service rule for two years but after the expiration of two years may change its plan and adopt one of the other forms, however, any new choice does not go into effect until one year after such change in choice is made.

Under the County Civil Service Commission plan the county makes its own civil service rules, subject to approval by the State Civil Service Commission.

Favor Home Rule

An almost complete determination for home rule was reported at expiration of the year given 57 counties outside New York city, under the Fite law, to choose one of three forms of civil service administration.

The statute, enacted last year under the authority of Republican Assemblyman Emerson D. Fite, Dutchess county, extended civil service to more than 40 counties previously without regulation. They and counties already organized were required to make a choice of future administration.

New York city, which operates its own civil service system, was not affected. The city embraces five counties.

Rounding out a state program instituted in 1894, the law allowed a selection among direct administration by the State Civil Service Commission, appointment locally of a personnel officer, or establishment of a County Civil Service Commission.

Essex county, last to report, joined Chautauque, Rockland, Sullivan and Tompkins in accepting state administration. All others elected to maintain local control, with three voting for a personnel director and 49 planning to operate their own commissions.

George R. Hitchcock, secretary of the State Civil Service Commission, said most county commissions have been established through appointment by boards of supervisors.

The state commission will retain administration of school civil service in districts outside cities. The Fite law permits, but does not require, cities to turn their civil service systems over to the state. Hitchcock said only Rye, a newly created city, has voted for state jurisdiction.

Vacation Church School Will Be Held in City

The uptown churches of Kingston are uniting in another cooperative venture. This time it is the Kingston Vacation Church School which calls forth united effort.

This is the first time that the churches of Kingston have projected a vacation church school. Much interest is being aroused because the need for such a school has long been felt. The advance registration is encouraging. It is obvious that many parents are glad of the opportunity being offered for their children. The sessions of this interdenominational church school will be held in the Albany Avenue Baptist Church each week-day morning, 9 to 11:30 a. m., July 13 through 24.

The Rev. H. Victor Kane and the Rev. Herbert Greenland will be the directors. The faculty includes Mrs. William McVey, Mrs. Chester Greene, Mrs. Robert Decker, Miss Betty Snyder, Mrs. Robert Thompson, Mrs. Raymond Rignall, Mrs. Henry Milligan and Mrs. Benjamin Sherman.

The purpose of the Vacation Church School is to provide a place within the church for children who would be idle during the summer. It is hoped that by turning the children's surplus energy into constructive handicraft, play, study, music, drama, foundations for Christian character may be laid. The primary aim of this school is to bring about knowledge of and loyalty to the Bible, the church and the Lord, Jesus Christ.

An informal summer spirit prevails at a summer school. Any child of primary, junior or intermediate age will be welcomed.

"Y" Camp Will Strive To Build Character

The Y. W. C. A. Camp, Triangle Acres, will open its organized program for junior members, Sunday evening, July 5, under the direction of the Girl Reserve Secretary, Mrs. Herbert Fister. The camp will continue throughout the month of July.

Mrs. Fister has announced that the camp programs this year included activities that will stiffen the child's backbone to meet the harder tasks to come. More individual responsibility will be emphasized. Without losing sight of the fundamental aims of camping, the camp at Triangle Acres will offer a program more closely geared to the immediate situation. There will be plenty of fun, adventure, music, singing, hiking and swimming, but each child will feel that she has a share in building a society that has a definite job to do.

Mrs. Fister stresses the fact that as never before children must learn that it is fun to do things the hard way; that in so doing they are developing strong bodies and minds to face the future with courage. From tasks and responsibilities, the children will learn the joy of achievement and the pleasure of serving others. This year the counselors will endeavor to teach above all, three of the basic rules for happiness in the democratic way of life: intelligent obedience, respect for authority, love for one's country.

In addition to the general supervision of Mrs. Fister, the counselors will be Miss Babette Doniger of Elmira College as head swimming counselor, assisted by the following junior counselors: the Misses Kathryn Phinney, Ruth Herdman, Hilda May Kinch and Anna Marie Manfro.

There are still a few vacancies at the camp. Reservations may be made at the Y. W. C. A.

Forget Frills

Ruffles, flounces, frills and fur-bellows are a thing of the past. That holds in your home furnishings just as it does in your 1942 wardrobe. When you make your new curtains, eliminate the ruffles; forget the pleated flounce on slipcovers; leave off that extra foot or so in length which makes drapes touch the floor. In making a change-over to a smart simplicity in your home decorations, you are in tune with the times.

Pick It Up

Save your pins and needles. Don't sweep stray pins into the dustpan, you may need them one day. The armed forces and essential civilian industries, such as laundry, cleaning and garment-making establishments get first call on the available supply of pins. So there won't be as many for household use.

BLOWING ONE'S NOSE AT TABLE

To the question of what to do about having to blow one's nose before people—particularly at table—the answer is: If you must, there is no question but that you must! The important requirement is an absolutely fresh handkerchief. Nothing is so nauseating as to be forced to see someone continue to use the same handkerchief. If you are likely to need more than one, carry several.

One useful suggestion which has helped many to overcome any habitual tendency to need a handkerchief, at table, is to remember not to eat your food in too big or rapid mouthfuls when it is too cold or while it is too hot. Very hot or very cold food or drink, unless taken in very small mouthfuls, or sips, is almost certain to make the use of a handkerchief a quick necessity. Needless to say you should never go near others if you can help it, with a cold in your head.

Bridesmaids and Ushers' Presents

Dear Mrs. Post: We'd like to give our bridesmaids and ushers their presents at the dinner given for the wedding party after the rehearsal. Should these be given by both the bride and bridegroom or should each give only to his own attendants? Shall these presents be laid at each place?

Answer: The bride gives presents only to her own attendants, and the bridegroom to his. They could perfectly well be put at the places. "To John from Fred," "To Mary from Dora" is all that is usually written on the cards—unless the bride or bridegroom, or both together, are talented and write personal verses or jingles to each.

Getting Married at 70

Dear Mrs. Post: A man and woman both in the early seventies would like to get married. She has been a widow for many years, but he has been a widower for only six months. Will you tell them whether the same rules of propriety about waiting a year apply to people of their age?

Answer: I think at their age they might leave quietly and get married at almost any time. In other words, I can't imagine that they will announce an engagement or have a big wedding, but that they will just go by themselves and be married.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "OUTDOOR SUMMER MANNERS." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Tom Fisher Pitches 4-Hit Game as Minasians Tally 5-4 Victory Over Perrys

Lindhorst Steals Home in Sixth Inning to Provide Winning Run of Contest

Young Tommy Fisher hurled himself another neat ball game at Hasbrouck Park last night as he pitched a four-hit game to give the Minasians a 5 to 4 victory over Perrys. Fisher was helped to triumph when Ray "Lindy" Lindhorst stole home in the sixth inning to provide the margin of victory.

Fisher gave up four hits and kept up his great strikeout parade by sending 10 batters back to the bench via the third-strike route. He was opposed by Herbie Williams who also pitched himself a good ball game but was charged with the loss. Williams allowed nine hits.

Bill Bush, first baseman of the Minasians, was the batting hero of the fracas as his big bat drove out three hits in as many trips to the platter. Bush collected a double and a singleton. D. Perry had two of the four hits off Fisher. Last night's victory for the Minasians kept the club only a half game out of first place in the City Baseball League standings.

No official report was made this morning of the Farrell-Haber game at Block Park. One spokesman, however, claimed that the game was forfeited.

In Monday's game the batting features were supplied by Ed Sohn of the winners, who blasted out a homer with one on, "Doc" Wells, also of the Aces, slammed out four for four, three doubles and a single. Don Riehl had a triple. The Aces executed two double-plays.

Arnie Adams and "Doc" Wells formed the winning battery. Rizzis and Whalen worked for the All Stars.

Reds, Cardinals Score Victories in Night Games

Ray Starr, Mort Cooper Win the 11th Game; Smith Continues With Hard Luck

(By The Associated Press)

There were only two five-hit ball games pitched in the major leagues yesterday and neither of them was good enough to win.

If you were given a blindfold test and asked to name one of the pitchers who had the misfortune to lose such a well-pitched game it's almost certain you would name lefty Edgar Smith of the Chicago White Sox on the first guess.

You would be right, of course. Everything happens to Cotton-Top and last night it was Lou Boudreau. The boy manager of the Indians personally collected four of the five hits made off Smith and one was Boudreau's first homer of the year.

Bagby Wins Ninth

That explains in a nutshell how Smith acquired his 12th setback of the season opposite two triumphs, although he has pitched consistently spectacular ball all year. Jim Bagby, working on one day's rest, kept the Sox to seven safeties in gaining his ninth victory, but needed the aid of Chubby Dean.

The other losing five-hitter also was pitched by a Chicagoan in a night game—the Cubs' Big Bill Lee getting turned back at Cincinnati 4-1 by the Reds as Ray Starr, the 36-year-old rookie, obtained his 11th victory against three defeats.

Lee was in frequent trouble because of walks, but Starr, hurling a six-hit rebuttal, would have had a shutout except for a double steal.

The game was played for armvny relief and, along with an exhibition by the Reds-Cubs Stars against the Great Lakes Naval team drew $36,000 from approximately 30,000 fans.

Mort Cooper of the St. Louis Cardinals matched Starr's 11-3 won and lost record by beating the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2, but saw his streak of consecutive scoreless innings snapped at 32 and lost whatever chance he had of getting his fourth straight shutout when Elbie Fletcher homered in the first inning.

Altogether Cooper allowed nine hits, the most he has given in any game this year, but the Cards made the same number off Rip Sewell and had things their own way with Enos Slaughter batting in three runs and Jim Brown counting for the other on his first home run of the year.

The Boston Braves stopped the Brooklyn Dodgers 4-3 for the first time in 15 games over a period stretching back into the 1941 season. Hugh Casey, the relief specialist, started on the mound for Brooklyn but was removed for a pinchhitter with the score tied at 3-all in the third. Rookie Les Webber gave up the winning run in the fifth.

Giants Trim Phils

Cliff Melton achieved his tenth triumph as the New York Giants nosed out the Phils 4-3 on a run which Melton himself singled home in the fourth. The Phils made a double play in every one of the first four innings, but couldn't keep the Giants from getting all their runs in the same span.

The faltering New York Yankees saw their American League lead shrivel to 4 1/2 games as they divided a doubleheader at Philadelphia while the Boston Red Sox swept a pair of games from the Washington Senators.

The Yanks dropped their first tussle 8-3 for their third straight loss and 10th in 15 games. It was the first defeat of the year for Hank Borowy and the first win for lefty Herman Besse of the A's. The champs almost booted the second, but rallied for three runs in the ninth to win 4-3. Relief pitcher John Lindell knocking in the deciding run with a single.

The Red Sox made 26 hits in thumping the Senators 9-8 and 5-2.

British Incomes Have No Ceiling

Tax Rate of 97 1/2 Per Cent Operates to Limit Spendable Sum.

LONDON.—Although there is no arbitrary ceiling on net incomes in Great Britain, the tax rate runs up to 97 1/2 per cent, which makes it extremely difficult under wartime economic conditions for any individual to have a spendable income of more than $30,000.

To attain that large a net income after taxes, a Britisher must gross $1,200,000 a year. Individual income figures are not published in England, but tax experts believe $1,200,000 represents about the highest individual income in the country.

On such an income an individual would pay an income and surtax of $1,170,000, leaving him with a net, spendable income of $30,000. Should he succeed in increasing his gross, however, there would be no ceiling on the amount he could keep for his own use. But the rate at which this net increase accrued would be only 2 1/2 cents out of each additional dollar he was able to earn.

No Capital Gains Tax.

Certain categories of income which are taxable in the United States are not taxable here. For example, England imposes no capital gains tax on those who make money occasionally by selling stocks at a profit, but neither can losses in such ventures be deducted. An individual regularly engaged in playing the stock market as his basic vocation, however, must pay tax at regular rates on such gains and is permitted to deduct his capital losses.

Money won on horse or dog races or in lotteries also is exempt from tax on the theory that windfalls are not properly classified as earnings.

The British tax structure calls for a 50 per cent basic income tax.

Among permissible deductions in figuring taxable income are:

Allowances of $320 for a single person; $560 for a married couple; $200 for each child or dependent; 10 per cent of earned income, with a maximum of $600; life insurance premiums up to a point where the premiums paid exceed one-sixth of the gross income or equal the net taxable income; premiums on deferred annuities on the same basis as life insurance premiums.

Surtax Begins at $6,000.

Surtax is payable on all income above $6,000, at the rate of 10 per cent on the sixth, seventh and eighth thousand, rising gradually to 25 per cent on the 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd and 24th thousand, and to 47 1/2 per cent on all income above $80,000.

The maximum combined income tax and surtax rate is therefore 97 1/2 per cent. A taxpayer thus has 2 1/2 cents for himself out of each dollar of income above $80,000.

Out of his resultant net income, after taxes, he pays heavy indirect taxes on almost everything he purchases or uses, such as $150 annual tax on an automobile of the power of American models, 15 cents on an imperial gallon of gasoline, more than $3 on a bottle of Scotch, $2.10 on a $4.25 orchestra seat in a theater and 66 2/3 per cent on luxury products.

They Don't Whistle at These Girls Any More

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—The boys at the Douglas Aircraft factory don't whistle at the girls any more.

Since employment of women in the factory became general, the male workers had been accustomed to greet the appearance of a particularly attractive one with whistles and other vocal evidences of approval.

But the girls got together and formed what they called a reprisal committee. They lined up as the men filed out for lunch, and did a little whistling of their own, interspersed with such remarks as "Just look at Tarzan there." "Oh, baby, what a torso," and more of same.

So-o-o, the boys don't whistle at the girls out at Douglas any more.

Wife Follows Her Son And Husband Into Army

NEW YORK.—Watch out Hitler! Take care Tojo! The Murphys are coming.

With her husband and one son already in the army and a second son about to be inducted, Mrs. May E. Murphy of Westerleigh, State Island, a nurse in the first World War, disclosed Monday that she was joining up again.

Said Mrs. Murphy: "We've got to lick those Japs, and I am going to do my bit to help. A person can't sit around doing nothing when you've got your health, and there's a job to do."

Crab Packing Develops Into Major Industry

ASTORIA, ORE.—Crab packing is developing into a major local industry.

A pack of 40,000 cases appears probable this year on the basis of reports that the Columbia River association will pack 20,000, the New England Fish company 15,000 to 20,000, and the Dunning Clam company 4,000 or 5,000 cases.

Crab season extends from February to July.

"Grandpa" In Army

Moundsville, W. Va. (AP)—The United States Army has inducted a grandfather. On the day that Selva Theodore Robinson, 37, got his induction papers he learned that his daughter, Mrs. Helen Jackson, of Cameron, had given birth to a daughter.

Curtain Will Rise Tomorrow on City Playground Shows

The curtain will rise on the 1942 series of Community Night programs to be staged on the city playgrounds, at Hasbrouck Park tomorrow night.

Festivities will get under way at 6:45 o'clock when Farrells meet Hildebrants in a City Baseball League game.

Following the game the scenery will change to the amphitheater located on the spacious slopes of the park where thousands of people will throng to witness the gala movies and entertainment which will take place.

Introduction of the park staff will open the stage show, followed by entertainment provided by the nine playgrounds under supervision. Included in this playground entertainment will be songs, bits of magic, dancing, recitations and what have you.

Following the entertainment four reels of movies will be shown. This first is "Mickey's Medicine Man," a story of the ever popular Mickey McGuire.

The second is "News Thrills of 1942."

The third is "Our Empire in the Air," which displays the United States Air Force as the greatest in the world.

The fourth and last is "Pots and Pans," a comedy, which has always been the most popular of all pictures with the children.

RUBBER DEFIES SHELLS

Rubber mixed with concrete in Australian tests minimized shell bursts. Under a direct hit there is no splintering, and resistance is much greater. The invention of a Sydney man, now dead, the process is a closely guarded secret.

The rubber also makes concrete acid proof and water proof. The Agricultural Department is using it in dams and silos. In silos it prevents sweating of wheat.

Polish Diplomat Dies

New York, July 1 (AP)—General Roselaw Winiawski-Dlugoszowski, Polish ambassador to Italy during the hectic days preceding the German invasion of Poland in 1939, fell or jumped to his death from the roof of a Riverside Drive building today. The 65-year-old former envoy climbed to the roof of a six-story building at 3 Riverside Drive clad in pajamas and bedroom slippers, detectives said. His body was found in a vacant lot next door. Detective William Mansfield reported that the general had recently received an appointment as ambassador to Cuba for the Polish-government-in-exile.

More Pay for Forces

Washington, July 1 (AP)—"Pay call" meant an extra $20 to a majority of Uncle Sam's fighting men today. It was the first time they had answered the call since legislation became effective boosting the basic pay-for-buck privates and apprentice seamen—from $30 to $50 a month. Other grades also were given increases in pay. In addition, living allowances for some grades of officers were boosted under the new pay rate.

Will Observe Fourth

Detroit, July 1 (AP)—Most, if not all, of the automobile factories converted to war work in the Detroit area will observe Independence Day on Saturday by putting in full time on armament production. A General Motors spokesman said orders have gone out to all of the corporation's war work divisions calling for full operations Saturday where materials are on hand.

War savings are now reaching nearly $50,000,000 a week in Britain.

Spanish Veterans Convene July 12-15 For State Conclave

The 39th annual Department Encampment, Department of New York, United Spanish War Veterans, will be held in Kingston on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 12 to 15, inclusive. It is expected that approximately 1,400 delegates will attend the sessions. Business sessions will be held in the municipal auditorium with headquarters in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Sunday evening a memorial service will be held in the municipal auditorium while the business sessions will open Monday morning at 9 o'clock in the auditorium.

An interesting program of entertainment has been arranged for the delegates which will start Monday evening with a ball game between the members of the Kingston and Newburgh police departments at 6 o'clock, followed by a game under the floodlights between the Kingston Recreation and the New York city police team. Tuesday evening the annual department ball will be held in the auditorium. The ball will be staged following the big parade which starts at 5:30 o'clock that evening from the auditorium.

The parade will be reviewed from the reviewing stand on Albany avenue.

In conjunction with the annual encampment the Auxiliary will also meet, holding its sessions in the Elks Club.

The Sons of Spanish-American War Veterans will hold its ninth annual session at the same time as the annual encampment with business sessions in the Memorial Building of Kingston Post of the American Legion.

Governor Donates Shoes

Albany, N. Y., July 1 (AP)—Governor Lehman gave up tennis today for the duration—his playing shoes went on the scrap rubber pile. "No more tennis until the war's over," commented Mrs. Lehman as she added the shoes to a heavy collection of scrap rubber from the executive mansion. A second contribution of old rubber—the first netted 60 pounds—bared the historic mansion of even the 10-year-old front door mat which Mrs. Lehman said had become "an institution." Also included were Mr. Lehman's rain cap, hose, a tire galoshes and a kneeling mat for floor washing. Concerned over New York's poor showing in the scrap rubber drive, the governor appealed to citizens to dig out every available scrap.

Rain Is Needed

Albany, N. Y., July 1 (AP)—Weather has been favorable for vegetation growth in New York but additional rain is needed in all sections, the weather bureau said today in a crop condition summary for the week ended yesterday. Warming, unclouded adequate but some cloudiness fostered unfavorable drying conditions, particularly for hay. A heavy hay crop was reported.

U. S. Shipyards Make New World Record

Washington, July 1 (AP)—For the second month in succession, America's shipyards established a new world record in June for the completion of steel cargo ships, putting 96 freighters and tankers into service.

The 66 vessels of 731,900 deadweight tons compared with the May record of 58 ships of 632,304 tons. The best previous record was set in September 1919 when 618,886 tons of steel ships were delivered.

In announcing the June figures Rear Admiral Howard L. Vickery, vice chairman of the Maritime Commission, predicted anew that President Roosevelt's 1942 goal of 8,000,000 tons would be reached.

Rommel Advances Further in Egypt

Suez Canal; from Haifa, Palestine, or even Beirut, Lebanon.

Official circles indicated that the Suez vital link between the Mediterranean and the Red Sea, might be destroyed if the Axis invaders reached the Red Sea.

Conquered many times in its history dating back thousands of years before Christ, Egypt was clearly in extreme jeopardy as Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's mechanized armies raced on toward the Nile.

Italian headquarters said German and Italian tank columns had passed El Daba, 100 miles west of Alexandria; British dispatches conceded this.

The Axis vanguards were described as probably small and some distance in front of General Rommel's main armies. Nevertheless, they had knifed half way into the corridor between the Mediterranean coast and the Qattara depression which affords the British their narrowest line for the defense of Alexandria.

British headquarters reported tersely that "a number of enemy tanks were knocked out" in an armored battle yesterday, but said fighting on a large scale did not develop.

Churchill Faces Test

On the British home front, Prime Minister Churchill faced a test of faith in his war leadership as Sir John Wavell-Milne, a member of his own party, moved a vote of "no confidence" in the government.

Churchill himself will wind up the debate tomorrow, and observers expected his oratory to disarm the opposition.

Critics assailed Churchill for centering too much responsibility in his own hands, as prime minister and defense minister, and asserted that coordination was lacking among Britain's land, sea and air arms.

Wardlaw-Milne suggested that the Duke of Gloucester, younger brother of King George VI, should be named commander in chief of the British army, thereby eliciting derisive shouts:

"That'd put the lid on it!" Sir John declared that American-built Kittyhawk fighters used by the R.A.F. in Libya could be trusted only up to 10,000 feet, while at higher altitudes the German Messerschmitt 109Fs were better.

"German tanks outgun ours in range three to one," he said, "and their armor is much thicker."
